Our New Dress.

The JOURNAL, in an entirely new dress, shaped in the latest and most approved style, greets its readers this morning, with its profoundest bow. We need not say that no expense has been spared to make the paper, in its present form, a representative of the progress, intelligence and good taste of our citizens. The paper tells that by its very appearance.

Some of our readers may dislike the quarto form because they are unaccustomed to it. We think, however, that all will in time agree with us that it is not only the neatest in appearance, but the most convenient manner in which a daily paper can be "made up." We have several reasons for adopting the quarto form. It is the most fashionable. Have we a lady reader who can not appreciate the potency of that reason? By publishing reading matter on every page advertisers experience the benefit of a glance over their advertisements by every reader of the paper every morning. Their ability and willingness to sell their goods cheap is "kept before the people" in a way that can never be done in the old blanket sheet style of making up papers. Again, under our present arrangement, we can discard the "hand bill" or "poster" style of newspapers which nearly all the Dailies of second class cities have adopted. Nothing is more unpleasant to the reader of a newspaper than the glaring display of poster type in a paper that he takes up to find the news. Our observation and experience have taught us that in exact proportion as newspapers prostitute themselves to the whims and wishes of every advertiser as to the size of the type in which his advertisement shall be published, they lose their value as advertising mediums. The papers which have the largest advertising patronage, such as the New York Herald, and Cincinnati Commercial, are those who have discarded the old manner of displaying their advertisements. Besides, where every advertiser is permitted to put his advertisement in big type, relatively, advertisements are no more conspicuous than where they are all neatly displayed in small type. We still retain a few advertisements whose contracts are nearly expired. Hereafter, no large cuts will be received, nor will unusually large type be used in displaying advertisements. We are confident every reader will endorse the wisdom of this resolution.

We have purposely selected a type with a bold, clear face, both for the reading matter and advertisements. This, too, we apprehend will give satisfaction to all our subscribers.

For a time some of our readers may experience difficulty in knowing where to look for what they want, and we will, therefore, specify our intended manner of making up the paper. On our first page we will put the telegraph, and perhaps some late news selections. On our second page will always be found communications, selections, &c. On the third page a column, at least, of poetry, sentiment, or something of that sort may be anticipated. The fourth page will be set apart for editorial. The sixth page will contain local and State news; the seventh page, commercial and river intelligence, and the eighth page, late local and river news. In a day or two we hope to have our advertisements so classified that every reader will know exactly on which page to look for a particular branch of business or trade. This will be of convenience to the readers and valuable to the advertisers.

We have no very extensive promises to make as to future improvements. Our readers will give us credit, we think, for doing all in our power with the means at our command to present them with a readable and acceptable paper. We think our paper will compare favorably with any Daily in the United States published in a city of no larger population than our own. We shall endeavor to make of the JOURNAL a newspaper in every sense of the word. We shall devote more than ordinary attention to the local department, and trust that we shall in this particular make our paper reflect, as from a mirror, all that transpires in the city, of public interest.

We have no complaints to make as to our patronage in the past. We only trust that our friends will, in the future, exert themselves in our behalf in proportion to our efforts to please and inform them.

MILLINERY GOODS.

TO THE MILLINERS.

NEW CLOAK & DRESSMAKING ESTABLISHMENT

MRS. J. C. PECK,

First Street, near Sycamore.

I DESIRE TO ANNOUNCE TO THE Ladies of this city, that I have dissolved partnership with Mrs. Schaefer, and am now carrying on the business of Cloak and Dressmaking by myself.

The latest and most stylish patterns have been procured to accommodate the tastes of the Ladies, and the work will be executed in a manner as fine as can be found elsewhere in this place.

Also, Children's dresses are made at reasonable prices, and according to order.

I shall be happy to receive orders at the well-known French Millinery Establishment of Mrs. Klingelhoefer, on First Street, marked 23m.

MRS. SHAFER

WISHES TO INFORM THE LADIES OF

Evansville and vicinity that she still continues her Millinery business, on Third Street, between Main and Sycamore, having received a new supply of Spring Goods, also, Dress and Cloak patterns. Having secured the services of a first class

Dress and Cloak Maker.

I am confident of giving the most decided satisfaction. She feels thankful for past favors, and continues to solicit their future patronage. She has also the Agency of the celebrated GROVER & BAKER

Sewing Machine.

The Grover & Baker is the most simple, durable, and perfect Sewing Machine before the public. It makes the celebrated Elastic Double Lock-Stitch, which will not break even on a bias, and needs no fastening at the ends of the seams. It not only does every other kind of sewing in a most perfect manner, but does the most beautiful embroidery.

An assortment of Machines on hand and for sale. Full instructions will be given with each machine by an experienced operator.
